Service, Teamwork, Attitude, Respect, Safety

Annually since 1999 our state association, LeadingAge Ohio, has sponsored the STARS program to recognize non-supervisory staff members who represent the best of the best in their daily service. Residents, family members, staff members, and even vendors can nominate staff who consistently demonstrate excellent service, teamwork, attitude, respect, and safety in their daily work.

For our Northeast Ohio region, the 2020 STARS program will accept nominations of non-supervisory staff members beginning Mon., March 9, and ending on Fri., March 27. Nomination forms will be available at the Heiser Reception Desk and at the Stephens Care Center Medical Secretary Desk on March 9.

Due to limited space at the Fri., April 17, Recognition Luncheon, only six STARS and one nominator for each STAR will be selected to attend. A selected STAR Finalist with multiple nominators will have only one nominator accompany them to the luncheon, and anyone who nominates a staff member must be able to attend the luncheon if their nominee is selected. The Kendal bus will transport the group to the Jennings Center for Older Adults in Garfield Heights.

Our 2019 STARS, Angie Church, Annette Moore, Debbie Phillips, Veronica Toth, and Christopher Twymon, are not eligible to be nominated for the 2020 program.

Cosmic Train Wrecks: When Galaxies Collide
Dr. Jillian Scudder,
OC Asst. Prof. Dept. of Physics
March 19 - 7:15 pm - AUD
Galaxies are not always solitary islands in a mostly empty universe. Occasionally they find themselves with close neighbors. When the neighbors are close enough, gravity promises us a cosmic smash-up, with the two galaxies flung around each other to form a new galaxy. This process provides some of the most photogenic images, but what can we learn from it? Professor Scudder will discuss how we search for these collisions between galaxies, how a collision changes the galaxies involved, and what we still hope to learn.

The Kendal Gallery’s installation of large intensely colored, abstract oil paintings presents the work of Moroccan-born Taha Benadada. His intensely hued, semi-abstract canvases contrast light against dark, in seascapes, landscapes, day and night skies. These dramatic canvases will be on exhibit until the end of the month.

A reception is scheduled for Friday, March 20, at 4:30pm in the Heiser Lounge.

Community Gallery now displays the photography of Roy C. Jenkins until April 2. Photography has been a lifelong passion for Roy that developed into a profession. He has exhibited in various galleries and art festivals as well as numerous publications. His primary subjects are landscapes, seascapes, nature, and lighthouses, all unique with shape, size, location, and history. At his reception in February, Roy described many technical aspects of photography, especially printing on cibachrome.

The next exhibition will be quilts by Cat Fobes Nimer.

Katie Kreuger’s vibrant bold acrylic paintings on wood will continue to brighten the Friends Gallery in March. At her reception, the side-by-side slide show of her work made interesting contrasts, comparisons, and harmony. This ambitious young woman is studying to be a social worker and plans to use her artistic talents as a means to interact with her clients.

The art committee thanks the many Kendal residents who lent their treasures Curious Critters, created by Michele Hannon for the display in the Curio Cabinet. These whimsical fantasy creatures will be here for all to enjoy until spring.

Library Notes:
Unwanted Gifts
Except for newspaper subscriptions, our Kendal Library relies entirely on donations to stock our shelves. We can point with pride to the high quality of a collection built with books, magazines, and DVDs literally chosen by our residents. Like the Kendal Resale Shop, however, we also receive a number of books unsuited to our needs, which we must dispatch to sales of the Friends of the Oberlin Public Library, recycling, or trash. Please give a thought to fellow residents Joe Luciano and Vern Wettersten, who week after week carry box after box of books to OPL.
What do we ask that you not give us?
• Books not in the English language
• Moldy, mildewed, or dingy books
• Worn, dilapidated books
• Heavily highlighted, underlined, or annotated books
• Books damaged by spilled coffee or other drinks
• Textbooks
• Highly specialized technical works
• Obsolete reference works
• Medical books more than five years old
• Very old, fragile books
We will always need respected recent general interest books, magazines, and DVDs, but please consider whether a potential book donation is something you would want to encounter on our shelves or at a library sale.

More About Kendal’s Residents

Vincenzo Santone and Ann Estelle Halteman

Vincenzo:
I was born in Benevento, Italy, a child of WWII. I have vivid memories of a war zone…running to avoid bombs, knowing my mother was protecting me, watching search lights, stealing from the occupying forces.

I studied at Padri Rogazionisti, Viale Colle Aminei, Naples, and Magistrale “Salvatore Pizzi,” Capua. I left school reluctantly to join relatives in New York and Boston; I have remained “perversely” European.

My calling is as a visual artist. In the U.S. I attended the Museum School associated with the Boston Museum of Fine Arts, and the Massachusetts School of Fine Arts. Along the way I married and had four children. I enjoyed being a father, I loved playing with, and taking my children with me as I explored New England. I was very serious about teaching my children to read and write Italian.

In midlife I gave up my day job (Ma Bell slimmed down) and devoted myself to my art. (I teach Italian on the side.)

I have traveled extensively, in Europe, India, Russia, Turkey, Egypt, Central and South America. I had the freedom to spend months at a time traveling. My travels have broadened my artwork.

Ann:
I was born in Moscow, ID, but lived most of my formative years in the Santa Clara (Silicon) Valley of California.

I went to Oberlin College. I graduated in 1972 with a degree in mathematics. There were many things I loved about Oberlin; one was the weather. Oberlin was the first place I remember seeing snow fall. I learned to love a Spring that bursts into bloom and walking in the rain. I was not destined to be a “California Girl…where the girls all get so tanned.”

I married my Oberlin sweetheart. We went to graduate school at Ohio State University where I graduated with a degree integrating math and computer science.

My first real job was at Schlumberger Doll Research Center in Ridgefield, CT. My work involved mathematical modeling of acoustic systems. In 1986 I was hired by BBN Technologies in Cambridge, MA. The work I did at BBN moved me into a wider view of acoustics. I worked on designing quieter engines, gears, and fans.

With the turn of the century I decided to pursue a new career, teaching mathematics in middle school. I knew children who excel at math early are more likely to pursue careers in STEM fields.

I met my husband, Vincenzo Santone, in the early ’90s. He incredibly broadens my horizons. We have traveled outside the United States more broadly than I ever imagined. We love traveling, especially to Italy.

Now I am retired. I plan to continue being a problem-solver. I hope I can join the “Geek Squad” at Kendal and help maintain community computers. Maybe I can use my experience as a financial officer in clubs to good purpose. My other interests include yoga, reading, puzzles, and card games.

Together, Vincenzo and I have six children, nine grandchildren, and six great-grandchildren.

Social Justice Art Mosaic

Kendal residents are invited to participate in Oberlin college student Elia Tzoukermann’s project to have various groups discuss social issues while creating a mosaic installation.

In addition to our residents, men at Grafton Correctional Institute, elementary and middle school students, and Welcome Nursing Home elders, along with Oberlin college students, will create separate versions of identical murals which each group will keep. The mosaics will be accompanied by photos of all the murals to capture the collaboration of their work and mosaic art.

Everyone is welcome to drop by the Game Room in the Stephens Care Center on Thursdays between 6:00 and 8:00pm or on Saturdays between 2:00 and 4:00pm.

Upcoming Moves

Ann Fuller, from Oberlin to a Kendal Cottage in early March.

Recent Transfers

Russ Bimber, from his apartment to Whittier in mid-February.
The Wildlife Special Interest Group

The Wildlife Special Interest Group seeks to foster a safe, welcoming, and nurturing environment that meets the needs of residents, plants, and animals on our campus. We focus on education and constructive discussion and welcome all points of view. We work with Kendal Grounds and committees to understand plans, policies, and actions that address ecological issues on campus.

We are currently addressing a number of questions. For example:

Q: Who makes the decisions regarding management of plants and animals on campus?

A: From Kara Phillips on invasive species, nuisance animals and ecological restoration:

“Currently Grounds does not have any written policies and procedures for removal of invasive species. However, working with the results of the Master Landscape Plan, residents and staff have picked areas that have high priority for ecological restoration. When tackling invasives, we are not simply removing vegetation, but we have a plan in place to restore the area back to its native ecology, to enhance diversity and wildlife within the area; this is called ecological restoration….Grounds and Administration help to determine decisions on wildlife control methods within campus. That being said, we only target nuisance animals within the campus. We also follow all federal, state, and local laws when performing wildlife control.”

The Wildlife Special Interest Group wants our community to be informed, educated, and engaged in extending Kendal values to residents and the flora and fauna of the natural world.

Kara has shared this quote from Aldo Leopold: “All ethics so far evolved rest upon a single premise: that the individual is a member of a community of interdependent parts. The land ethic simply enlarges the boundaries of the community to include soils, waters, plants, and animals.”

What Do our Nest Box Monitors Do?

Monitors check each box once a week to see if it contains a nest and which species constructed it. Bluebirds weave neat round grassy nests in which they lay their sky blue eggs. Tree swallow nests are lined with soft white feathers that curl around their small white eggs. Chickadees construct low grassy nests lined with moss in which they lay tiny white eggs. House wrens stuff the nest box full of small sticks. Their small eggs are brown speckled. So even if the birds are not present, monitors can usually determine what species has claimed each box.

After the eggs have hatched, monitors check on health and development of the chicks. They inspect in and under each nest for parasites. If parasites are present, the infested nest is removed and discarded, the box is swept clean, and monitors create a new one out of soft dry grass. The nest boxes have snake guards to prevent snakes from slithering up the pole to devour the eggs or chicks.

All findings are recorded and the results tabulated by the Black River Audubon Society. BRAS compiles all the data in Lorain County and sends the results to Cornell University. All this becomes part of the National Audubon Society’s nationwide breeding bird survey.

The support of nest box monitors, has significantly increased the survival of these native species. Already this winter several Kendal residents have reported sighting Eastern Bluebirds in trees near their cottages, a testament to the successful monitoring of past years. The tree swallows and house wrens will not return to Kendal until their food source (flying insects) has emerged.

Sound like fun? If you would enjoy spending about two hours on a weekend once a month checking Kendal’s nest boxes, be sure to let Nina Love know!

Play Readers: “The Velocity of Autumn”
Fri., March 27 - 1:30pm - AUD; Sat., March 28 - 7:15pm - AUD

Alexandra, a woman in her 80s, sits in her armchair surrounded by Mason jars filled with a grayish liquid, exactly like the liquid in the jar she holds in one hand, a lighter in the other. She has sealed her front door with duct tape and barricaded it with furniture. Chris, her estranged son, can enter no other way than by breaking in through a window. While this opening tableau may portend trouble, not to fear. The play’s humor and poignancy will amuse and move Kendal audiences as they witness the clash when children and a lone parent strongly disagree on when and how a mother should relinquish her home. This play dramatizes that crisis with vitality and insightful originality. ~Phyllis Gorfain

Pruning, Not Just a Haircut

You may feel good after getting a good haircut. But if you get a bad one, your hair will grow out again and you’ll have another chance. Not so with trees and pruning.

Pruning a tree influences the way a tree grows. The tree can be shaped to be well-balanced, allowing for sunlight and air movement through the tree, giving it structural integrity. Quality pruning can improve a tree or woody shrub’s health and its ability to fruit and flower. Our Landscape Plan for Kendal includes a comprehensive life-cycle pruning program.

Formative pruning shapes our newly planted young trees in the first ten years of their lives and is of prime importance because it can increase strength and longevity.

Maintenance pruning removes dead and diseased limbs. Damaged limbs which are susceptible to diseases and insects can be cut off cleanly in a way that allows for the tree to heal. This prevents further decay. If not done in a timely manner, there often is no good solution.

One major problem is that in the past our trees did not get the needed care. Many cannot be revitalized because the tree was unable to seal off or compartmentalize the problem area. Many middle-aged trees in our arboretum are not in the best of health.

Clearance pruning keeps us safe on our walkways and reduces potential damage to structures here at Kendal.

So when you see our trained, capable staff removing branches from “your” tree outside your window, suppress the immediate reaction that they are hurting the tree that you liked just the way it was.

Know that pruning at Kendal enables our trees to grow into beautiful strong trees well into old age, fixes trees’ health problems, and keeps us safe. And don’t we all wish for that!

Sign Up to See the Film
“CRACKED: A New Light on Dementia”

The Dementia Education Group aims to help our community better understand cognitive change. With understanding comes empathy and an ability to relate more comfortably with those who are living with cognitive change and dementia. The DEG is now scheduling the film “CRACKED: A New Light on Dementia” for viewing in small groups of residents and staff together. There are at least 22 scheduled opportunities from March 4-April 29 at varying times including a few evening sessions.

“CRACKED” is the video of a play, based on research with families and individuals affected by dementia, created and performed by a talented Canadian cast of improvert theatre artists. The play shows the possibilities and importance of continuing relationships in the lives of the individual characters. An emotionally powerful story, it will be viewed by groups small enough for conversation and debriefing after experiencing it.

Everyone is encouraged to sign up for one viewing/discussion, to be held in the Education Center Training Room. Sign-up sheets are posted on the bulletin board near the Kendal Early Learning Center.

Is it Time to Part With Your Car?
Ask Dan Reiber for help. He will clean the car and have it checked by a mechanic. Using “blue book” values, he will determine a reasonable price and advertise your car, first to KaO employees and then to the wider community. In return for Dan’s services, you may make a charitable donation to KaO, for the benefit of RAF, typically 20% of the selling price. Dan’s goal is to help you manage this emotional decision with as little angst as possible. Contact him for information.

Resale Shop Folklore – What are your stories?
Do you have a story you like to tell about the KRS? What treasures have you procured? Do you ever talk about amazing bargains? Or the most unusual thing you found in the shop? If you have worked in the shop, what experiences are the most memorable? Resident folklorist Phyllis Gorfain is interested in collecting Resale Shop stories to create an anthology of KRS lore. Contact her at phyllis.gorfain@oberlin.edu, 440-935-3958, Box #209.

Pop-Up Sale on March 17!
With the closing of the Cardinal Shop, jewelry and other small specialty items will be sold in a new way. There will be special “pop-up” sales in the Heiser Lounge where shoppers can come to peruse and buy. Our inaugural pop-ups will be March 17 (yes, that’s voting day), 10:00am-12 noon and 4:00-5:30pm. Come see what it’s all about and take home a treasure!

Resale Shop deposits to RAF totaled $5,754.45 for January which include the proceeds from two cottage sales.

Saturday Walks

From now through March, those desiring to walk outside the Kendal campus should meet at the Heiser Reception Desk at 9:00am every Saturday. We will decide whether to walk that day (weather permitting) and carpool to the destination. The walks are 1-3 miles and are leisurely. Come join us!

Questions? Contact Phil Pritchett.

Declutter Your Sidewalks. Please!

Whether it is summer, autumn, winter, or spring, your front sidewalks can quickly become a hazard unless you consider the safety implications of what you add to your outdoor environment.

Because of continuing severe weather including more snow, it has become urgent to request — require — that all residents in independent cottages remove chairs, benches, pots, water hoses, bikes, walkers, and door mats, even rock collections — everything — from the shared walkways outside your front door.

The reason is SAFETY. Safety for you as you walk home with a large grocery cart or your wandering neighbor whose eyesight is fading, safety for the housekeepers and their carts which need space to park beside your front door, safety for emergency personnel who need space to quickly get around on the walk with a gurney to take you or your neighbor to the hospital, and safety for all of us as the blowers and snow shovels come through to remove snow and seasonal detritus from our front walkways.

Please remember that Facility Services reserves the right to appropriate any item on public walks which impedes snow removal or seasonal cleaning activities. ~Safety Committee

Table Tennis Update

With a week to go in February, we averaged 16 players per session. In the third week the average climbed to 18, topping the 17 for the prior two months. In all, 145 players practiced at our three tables.

On the Mondays that Doyle Harbaugh from Wakeman visited Kendal to help us improve all-round, he had plenty of eager takers. A professional wheelchair player, Doyle has represented the U.S. at home and abroad. He regularly coaches two Kendal wheelchair players and one presently needing to play from a chair. Our apartment-house table got plenty of use (hours: 9:00 to 9:00). Look in and give table tennis a try! Sidney Rosenfeld

Dining and Nutrition Services

A Tasty Morsel from the Dining Matters Committee

First Meatless Monday: March 2

For dinner, the dining staff will prepare three meatless entrées. You may try one entrée or have a taste of all three. The dining matters committee will reevaluate our meatless Monday events at the end of this three-month trial.
To counterbalance the Meatless Monday, we will also have a “comfort food” Monday on the third Monday of the month, starting on March 16. The dining staff isn’t sure of the menu yet, but meatloaf, chicken soup, and mac and cheese are under discussion.

DINING MATTERS

Blue Zones are places around the world where healthy longevity is common. One commonality among the Blue Zone diets is using beans as a major protein source. Beans provide protein and fiber and are low in fat; they also provide folate, potassium, and zinc. If you add beans to your healthy diet, start with a tablespoon of beans at a meal and increase the amount slowly. This will help your system adapt without undue discomfort.

Celebrate National Nutrition Month

National Nutrition Month is an annual March campaign promoted by the Academy of Nutrition and Dietetics. Begun in 1973 as National Nutrition Week, National Nutrition Month became a month-long observance in 1980.

I have been summarizing the National Nutrition Month slogans in The Kendalight for six years now. The 2020 slogan, Eat Right, Bite by Bite, is one of my favorite messages. It simply says that good health is a result of making good choices.

Eating well has a cumulative effect. A single cheat meal or day will not make or break your health. People often put off making changes in their diet because the idea of doing something for a lifetime can be overwhelming. However, this slogan tells you to take it one meal at a time. Unfortunately, many of us aren’t motivated to make changes for the better until something goes wrong. Start now, one bite or meal at a time. Make good choices and follow these guidelines over the next month. Maybe you will form a habit.

• Week 1 – Eat a variety of nutritious foods. Practice portion control, read nutrition panels, take time to enjoy your food.
• Week 2 – Plan your meals each week. Be menu-savvy when dining out, plan healthful eating while traveling, shop smart.
• Week 3 – Learn skills to create tasty meals. Try new flavors and foods, practice proper home food safety, reduce food waste.
• Week 4 – Consult a registered dietitian. Receive personalized nutrition advice to meet your goals.

As a member of Kendal’s Dining team, my passion is to assist you in achieving your nutrition goals and making our Dining program a healthful, dynamic, and sustainable one.
